The Search for Bodies in the Ruins of the Delavan House.

EIGHT MANGLED CORPSES FOUND.

Of These Only Two Have Been Recognized, and These by Articles of Clothing-The Victims Evidently Suffocated While Sleeping-The Fire Started in a Pile of Rubbish.

ALBANY, Jan. 9 -The charred and blackthed remains of eight victims of the Dela van house fire have been found in the tuins. Of the few remnants of bodies, in the shape of fleshless bones and mangled trunks, there was no possible means of identification were it not for the almost extraordinary fact that near the almost totally consumed fragments of human beings were found remnants of clothing that in two cases led to recognition. Those so identified were Simon Myers, the coffee man, identified by his vest, which lay near the iron cot on which he slept, and Agnes Wilson, a flattering bit of whose brown and black dress served as a guide to the identity of the poor mangled fragment that could hardly be called a body.

The remains of the eight bodies discovered are yet in the rules. Two of there were discovered together on a mattress at the northeast corner of the excavation, but the upper part of them were pinned under some heavy from bars on which rested a pMe of bricks thirty feet high. The work of releasing them was not accomplished when darkness compelled the men to desist from their labors. The other body was discovered when it was too dark to remove it. All the bodies were discovered within a space of about twelve feet square, in the cellar immediately under the hotel kitchen and bake louse, and at the point where the staircase from the servants' attic ter-

The staircase, wide enough only for one person to barely pass another, was evidently as bad a flue as the elevator shuft. and escape was out of the question for either those in the artic or those in the callar, and the fact that nearly all of the bodies have been found on beds leads to the supposition that they were suffecated

The search is being continued today. At the investigation into the causes of the fire last night, it was learned that it started in a pile of rubbish about twelve feet from the elevator shaft, and that an attempt was made to put it out, but it spread to squickly, and the engineer and those with him had to fly.

THE "COMDINE" BROKEN.

Philadelphia Political Leaders Split on the Mayoralty Fight.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 9 -The Republican ward 'combine' of this city, which has controlled the politics of its party for many years, went to pieces last night as a consequence of the mayoralty contest. Throughout the campaign it has been popularly supposal that, with the exception of Senator Porter, the "combine" was in favor of Senator Pearose for the office. Last night, bowever, the rumor became current that Penrose had been "dumped" by the leaders, and this proved to be true.

At the eleventh hour a meeting of the "combine" was held at the Union Republican club. Senator Porter occupied the chair, and the main spokesman was bavid Maxim What had occurred between the aders before the meeting could not be learned, but it was evident that the breach was a wide one Magistrate Durham, an influential member of the "combine," is the leader of the Penrose forces, and he tried to bring up the question, but Mr. Martia refused to talk or listen to anything cone-rang Senator Penrose's candidacy | Leader Martin's attitude has all along been uncertain, but last night he boldly expressed his opposition to Penrose and declared blinself for Charles F. Mr. Martin brought things to a crisis when, addressing Chairman Porter, he said be believed the time had come when the usciularss of the "combine" as a political organization was at an end. The members were divided seriously and irretrievably on the question of nonmating a mayor, and in his opinion nothing could oring them together again.

Then he emphatically denied the rumor circulated that he would retire as a political leader, and his words were very generally construct by those present to mean that he intends to be the sole and only leader in his party. He concluded with the suggestion that the meeting adjourn sine die, and after the marmar had subsided the motion was carried unanimously.

He said that to earn even the interest on bonds issued in July. 1894, required a total average of 50.99 passengers a day, while the actual number carried since last March averaged 27.155. ## THE CURRENCY BILL.

Democratic Opposition to Secretary Carlisle's Measure.

SIELEY'S SENSATIONAL SPEECH.

The Pennsylvania Damoerat, in Opposing the Chief Magistrate-four Johnson, of Ohio, Also Speaks in Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Jan 9-Yesterday was the last day of the general debate on the currency bill in the house, and the opponeuts of the massace had their innings. All the speakers except Representative Cox, of Tonnessee, are gronized it. The feature of the day was the speech of Mr. Sibley, of Pennsayania, who made an attack on the president and arraigned the Democratic party generally for drifting away from its tealitional incorings. His speech create t much confusion and a great deal of a sensation

Referring to the oublished reports that the executive de actment of the government, in the person of the secretary of the treasury, was using its power to influence votes in favor of the bill Mr. Sibley, said: "If I have read the constitution of the United States correctly, it defines the ship of this house; and I tell you that today if eyer a rebuke was needed to one who has transpled down the prerogatives of the people it is to that man who has used his influence, or attempted to use it, to create in himself the sole governing power of this nation. It has come to the time when to be the government of this people requires something more than a combination of brains, belly and brass.

"We saw our distinguished executive after the election of 1892," Mr. Sibley continued, "hie himself away for recreation. Where on earth did he go? To the classic shores of Hog Island The Bible says that when they are set at liberty each man will go to his own place. Where did he go to? To Buzzard's Bay. And ever since the old ship of state has been bumping her nose into Hog Island and floundering in the waters of Buzzard's Bay with prosperity but a cable length away.'

Tom Johnson, of Ohio, also created a stir in his speech opposing the bill. At the ourset he said he thought he lowed an apology to the house for speaking against a bill which was as dead as this was Ho denied that this bill was designed to take the government out of the banking business, and asserted that no bill could be devised for sound currency issues which would not place them under government supervision, and in effect make them alternately redeemable by the government It was the office of government to furnish money. This bill proposed to confer on banks without limit a right that could only be conferred on a monopoly. It gave them a monopoly or it was a failure. attempted to demonstrate that the bill would confer the same monopoly on the banks that the Bank of England and the Bank of France had.

The leading men of the various elements opposed to the Carlisle currency bill, Democrats, Republicans and Populists, held informal conferences with a view to agreeing on a plan for forcing the contest to a speedy close. As a result of the talks, the combined opposition may vote against the rule to be reported by the rules committee. As the rule is regarded as indispensible to passing the measure the defeat of the rule would be equivalent to a defeat of the hill

Further debate on Mr. Lodge's resolution asking for information why the American ships had been withdrawn from Hawall in waters took place in the senate yesterday. Mr. Palmer (Hls.) delivered a speech against the resolution, regarding it as an invasion by the senate of the powers of the president. He defended the acts of the present administration in Hawaiian affairs. His remarks provoked a number of interruptions by Republican senators, including Messrs. Lodge, Teller and Aldrich. Mr. Gray (DeL) also opposed its adoption. The day closed with eulogies on the late Affred H. Colquitt, of Georgia.

In August, 1889, a carriage in which Goodwin and his wife were out driving upset near the station house. Goodwin was carried into the station house slightly hurt. He was charged by Captain Carpenter with being intoxicated. The captain demanded his resignation and extorted it from him. Goodwin signed the paper, but added the words, "Under duress." Sergeant McGann, under orders from Captain Car-peuter, erased the words. It was upon this that the contention hinged in the numerous hearings of the case before the police board and in the courts. The supreme court finally decided that the scratching out of the two words entirely changed the document, and that it was not to be cousidered as a voluntary resignation.

LEGISLATIVE BUILDING MOBBED.

Broke Open the Doors in an Attempt to Interview the Ministers, Who Were Conveniently Absent-Stores Broken Into and Looted.

St. John's, N F . Jan 9.-A serious riot occurred here yesterday. The crowd of unemployed workmen, largely increased in numbers, met before the legislative building and hooted the ex-premier. Sir William Whiteway, who was formerly their idol. They marched again to the dock where the Tournaline is lying in order to receive the captain's answer to their petition of Monday Captain Sir Richard Poore, the commander of the warship, received a deputation and told them than the matter was in the hands of the govern-

The crowd became deeply exasperated, and the leader's suggestion that the ministers be seen was quickly acted upon. Proceeding to the chamber the crowd found that their coming had been anticipated, for they found the doors barred against them. Nothing daunted in their determination, the crowd set to work to force an entrance, and doors and windows were soon battered in, and ingress was gained. The police attempted to check the crowd in their work of destruction, but the officers fared badly in the scuffle that followed, the rioters for the time being masters of the situation. Their victery, however, was barren of result, for after guining the chamber they found that the members of the executive were con-venlently absent. In the meantime the police had sought reinforcements, but before they arrived the rioters withdrew. Later the crowd again visited the governor and made another appeal to him, but this was also ineffectual. Then they returned to the legislative building, but this time they were unabl to force an entrance. Then attention was turned to Steer's stores, which were quickly looted of their provisions.

At this point armed police intervened, and the mob was driven back at the point of the bayonet. Fourmen, Bussey, Brown Coady and King, the promoters of the riot, were arrested. How the Job Is Done by One of the Professional Farriers-A Sharp Knife and a Redhot Iron-Keeping a Sharp Lookout For S. P. C. A. Spotters.

Horses' tails are now docked in a new and, it is claimed, a more humane way. The work is done by specialists, who call at the stables to perform the operation. Like dentists, who dull the pains of teeth extracting by seating the victims on luxurious plush chairs, modern farriers try to make their patients comfortable during the tail clipping. Still, despite these well meant efforts, docking is painful. But stablemen all say it is not as painful as tooth pulling.

In the present case a farrier was summoned to perform the operation. He arrived at the stelle, carying his outfit in a canvas bag, this a sarlor's kit. Atter asking the coachman if the people present were "all right," the farrier carefully bolted and locked the doors and windows opening into the street and the back yard.

"Excuse me, gents," said the farrier briskly as he fastened the last window, but I have to be on my guard. Only last week a bloke jumped me over a back fence, and that cost me $100, that

One of the back windows was left open from the top, although the shutters were closed, so that the draft would carry off the fumes of a small charcoal furnace, such as plumbers use, that the farrier started up. This was to bring the cauterizing irons to a white heat.

The horse was then led into an end stall and fastened by an ordinary headstall to the manger, which was filled with oats. A piece of stout canvas, supported by a wooden framework previously built up in the stall, was swung under the horse's body. On one side this canvas hammock was secured by immovable fastenings, but on the other side the fastening ropes were tied to pulleys, so the horse could be raised up in the hammock.

Some stout wooden rails were built up to make a fence behind and almost touching his hind legs. The tail was laid across the top rail and a strap put over it. The hammock was then raised up until the horse was almost on his toe tips. Trussed in this way the horse could not kick or move his body or tail.

Now the actual operation began. The coachman tied a stout string around the tail at the place the incision was to be made and gathered up the long strands of hair that fell over it into a coil and fastened it back with a string, so as to expose the skin of the tail vertebræ. He then took a firm hold on the lower end of the tail, and the farrier began work.

The old fashioned docking shears with which the tail used to be divided are now out of use. The operation was done with a surgeon's amputating knife. The farrier poised the sharp edged lance over the vertebræ, and with short, deft strokes, wielding the knife with a steady hand, he cut through the fiesh and cartilage, quickly severing the tail.

There was no flow of blood, the string tied above the cut checking the hemorrhage. While the farrier brought an iron at white heat from the furnace the coachman clipped a bunch of hairs from the severed end. He covered the raw cut thickly with the hairs, and then the cauterizing iron was pressed against the flesh. A sickening odor of burning hair and flesh arose at once, making the air of the closed up stable almost suffocating. This was the end of the operation. Both the cutting and the burning had been done inside of 60 seconds. As a precaution the horse had not been fed that morning, and he began ravenously munching at the oats as soon as he was tied to the manger. During the cutting the horse did not quit eating, but he shook his head, and the body quivered when the iron burned the flesh. At this time, too, the horse gave a shrill neigh of pain, and but for the supporting hammock he might have fallen, for he tried to crouch down in the stall. As soon as the iron was removed the pain must have vanished, for the horse immediately began at the oats again and seemed at ease. By this improved method the operation is less cruel than under the old style of amputation.

The farrier's fear of detection was due to the vigilance of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which offers a standing reward of $100 to any one who will report a case of docking at its offices and give the evidence necessary to convict the offenders.-New York World.

John Wesley's Wife.

John Wesley married a widow, Mrs. Vizelle, who grew tired of his restlessly laborious life and complained. He paid no attention, and from complaint sho went on to jealousy, thenco to fury. He rebuked her sternly: "Do not any longer contend for mastery, for power, money or praise. Bu content to be a private, insignificant person Of what importance is your character to mankind? If you were builed just now or had never lived, what loss would it be to the causo of God?" She left him, taking with her a large number of his private papers, and he dismissed the subject by writing in his journal: "I did not forsake her. I did not dismiss her. I shall not call her back."

A FEMALE FLOGGER.

Second Exposure of Brutality For Which England Has No Law.

Mr. Labouch, re has been compelled again to expose a horrible scandal, which there is no law in England to suppress. It is the work of prof. -sional floggers of girls, boys and men. The establishment of the woman vio advertiser her services at terms from 5 shillings is described in Truth as the result of a call by prospective clients. The florger showed what she frankly call did that are room. There is an iron be tood, on which, she explained, ('e vac) . is extended across a pillow. On either ide are straps intended to meet across the Ludy and hold the victim down, while the arms and legs are fastened to the nour legs of the bedstead by contrivances like handcuffs. Gags and pads used to stifle the cries of the victim were also produced, the pads being used for the young girls who are liable to bite their lips under the torture, and thus disfigure themselves per-

Among the instruments of flagellation exhibited by the woman were two cat o' nine tails, one consisting of thongs of leather and the other of knotted cord, about 16 inches long. There was also a cat made of a leather strap slit into strips about a foot long. Birches of ordinary pattern were also produced, these being preserved in brine to keep them supple. The flogger explained that she no longer received children at her house, but treated them at their own homes, taking her appliances with her. The torture room was reserved for big girls and adults.

The last time Mr. Labouchere exposed this interesting industry he found it impossible to check it by law. The neighbors, however, made the place so hot for the flogger that she had to move several times. Her latest address is printed in Truth with the suggestion that the same remedy be applied again.

THE THIRTY YEARS' TRADITION.

The Death of Mr. O'Neill and Defeat of Mr. Holman Saved the Record.

It was fate which defeated Representative Holman. The venerable Indianian essaved to do what no one before him had accomplished. The tradition that limits service in the house of representatives to 30 years will receive increased respect from Mr. Holman's defeat. At the beginning of the present congress Mr. Holman and Mr. O'Neill of Philadelphia had a conversation about this tradition. Mr. O'Nelıl asked Mr. Holman what he thought of it. Mr. Helman smiled at the man who was "father of the house' and told him he was all right for half a dozen terms. Mr. O'Neill shook his head and reminded Mr. Holman of the fate that had overtaken Kelley, Randall and others just when it seemed that they were sure to break the record. Mr. Holman afterward told of this conversation and added: "I guess O'Neill will break the record. He is strong and hearty."

Before the year was out Mr. O'Neill was dead, and the tradition had received one more proof of its weird power. Mr. Holman then became "father of the house." Had be been elected this time he would have exceeded the traditional 30 years' limit as soon as he passed the 3d of next March. But he was defeated.

It will be a long time before the tradition will be tested again. With Mr. Holman the last of the members nearing the limit disappears. Mr. Bland goes out of congress with 22 years to his congress with out of credit. Mr. Cannon of Illinois and Mr. Culberson of Texas will have served 20 years each on the 3d of next March.-Washington Cor. St. Louis Globe-Dem-

A MYSTERIOUS HORSE BLANKET.

\ Has a Fine Crop of Hair Already, and Growing Is Still Going On.

Mr. William H. Forbes of Spencer Corners, Fulton county, is the possessor of a very old horse blanket, which differs from its fellows in that it has a well defined coat of hair in various stages of development, alive and growing. While possibly of a finer and silkier texture, it is an excellent reproduction of a horse's coat, which the blanket formerly covered.

Mr. Forbes first discovered this peculiarity in October last when taking it down from the peg in the barn, where it had hung undisturbed during the summer. He was naturally greatly astonished to discover two patches of growing hair, one on either side, where it had been exposed to the light and air. The hair is of a bright bay color and is now fully an inch in length. Probably the most peculiar feature of the affair, however, is the fact that the hair has spread from the two patches until it has entirely covered the blanket with a fine growth, varying in shade and color. It has not only been subjected to a critical inspection by several reputable men, but has undergone a microscopic test by two prominent physicians, of whom Dr. Henry C. Finch of Brodalbin makes affidavit, belon Judge Gardner, "that the hair, now lowing on the blanket is true hair and that the roots of the same are alive and in process of development."-Albany Times-Union.

ACTIVELY AT WORK.

REMARKABLE FXPERIENCE OF REV W. J. CHAPIN, OF CHATHAM.

His Interesting Story of His Prostration and Restoration to Health. From the State Journal, Springfield, Il.

In the pretty little village of Chatham, Sangamon county, there lives a Baptist divine whose snow white hair is the one outward sign that he has encroached upon the days beyoud the allotted three score years and ten. His clear eye, keen mental faculties and magnificent physique all bear witness to a life, well and nobly spent. This pioneer in God's eternal vineyard is Rev. W. J. Chapin, whose 72 years are crowded with noble deeds in the Christain minis-

To a State Journal representative who had occasion to ask him something of his career in the ministry, Mr. Chapin talked in a peculiarly interesting strain. The subject of his fine physique was broached by his interviewer and with increasing earcestness he said that, his life had not all been sunshine and good health.

"As my present appearance tesifies, I was fortunate in the possession of a very vigorous constitution. In my earlier years I scarcely knew what it meant to be sick, and I was almost a perfect stranger to any kind of medicine or tonic. As is too often the case, I overestimated my physical resources, and when it was too late learned that I had overdrawn my health account. The crisis came about eighteen years ago. At the time I was preaching the gospel from the pulpit, and I became suddenly so ill that I compelled to stop before my sermon was finished. It was a bad case of nervous prostration, and for a time my friends and family were greatly exercised over my condition. Completa rest was imperative, and to divert my mind from my active ministerial duties, Mrs. Chapin and I planned and took a long trip. My health was sufficiently restored by this diversion to resume work, but I was not the same man. I shall never forget that awful experience. It is hard to describe my feelings so that others can have a conception of them. I felt absolutely worthless, physically and mentally. I had so lost control of my muscles that my fingers would involuntarily release their grip upon a pen, and my hand would turn over with absolutely no volition on my part.

"About two years ago, to intensify matters. I was seized with a severe attack of lagrippe. I recovered only partially from it and had frequent returns of that indescribable feeling which accompanies and follows that strange malady. I looked in vain for something to bring relief and finally I read an account of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People. Something seemed to tell me that they would do me good and I commenced using them. They gave me additional strength from the start and tozed up my system from a condition of almost absolute prostration so that I was able again to resume my duties as a minister. I was so unaccustomed to taking medicine that I did not take the pills as regularly as I should have, and yet my improvement was mervelous, I am now preaching at Forest City and Lormi and in addition to the exacting character of this work itself, I ride ten or fifteen miles on the way there and back."

Mrs. Chapin, a kindly faced elderly lady, was present during the conversation and said: "I don't think Mr. Chapiu could ever have resumed his preaching after he had the attack of la grippe had it not been for the Pink Pills. They did him so much good that I decided to test their efficacy on myself. I have been troubled for years with what our physician, Dr Hewitt, calls rheumatic paralysis. Electricity gives me relief, but since taking the Pink Pills I have been stronger and the pain in my right arm and hand is less acute. We keep the pills in the house nearly all the time, and they do me a great deal of good in the way of toning up my syetem and strengthening me. The pills are u-ed by a good many others in this vicinity and every one speaks well of them. Mrs. Japh Knotts, wife of Supervisor Knotts, was ill for along time and her friends had all given her case up as hopeless when she began using the pills. She had been ill for a good many years and has been greatly benefited by the Pink Pills."

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Campany, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2,50, and are sold in bulk. They may be had of had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

Their Rescue of Wrecked Americans Magnificent Piece of Work.

The invalids wintering at Ventnor, a sheltered nook on the isle of Wight, were recently thrown into a state of excitement much greater than was good for them by the landing of a crew of shipwrecked American sailors, who, as soon as they got ashore, fastened on the spectators and told them a glowing tale of the heroism of their rescuers. The men belonged to the Boston coasting schooner Wilhelmine, which was caught in a terrific gale and driven out to sea. | cember, A. D., 1886. The schooner sprang a leak, and the crew, knowing that the vessel was likely to sink any moment, began to think of the folks at home and to pray. A steamer was seen approaching, but the Wilhelmine's men believed that rescue was impossible with such a sea running and did not even indulge in the luxury

The stranger was the German steamer Brilliant, and her officers and crew were made of the stoutest human fiber. They launched a lifeboat and rescued those unfortunate Americans with consummate bravery and devotion. The annals of the sea scarcely tell of a grander bit of work. Every one of those Germans carried his life in his hands and knew it as none but experienced sailors could know it. Over and over again they were forced back by the tremendous seas, and the manner in which they maneuvered their boat alongside the sinking schooner and got the men off was as fine a testimony to their skill as the actual undertaking was to their humanity and pluck.

Some of those rough Bostonian sailormen shed tears of gratitude when they were at length put safely aboard the Brilliant. Even at Ventnor and at Southampton, where they were taken at the American consul's expense, their eyes moistened as they told of the Germans' braver; and of the liberal treatment they received on board the Brilliant. It is proposed to bring the Brilliant's service to the official notice of the United States government, with a view of obtaining adequate recognition of the heroism and humanity of her officers and crew.-New York Sun's London Letter.

DID "THE RUBE ACT."

Experience of the Flushing Chappies With a Long Island Hayseed.

I've got a pigeon story from Flushing, which, next to Gowanus, is perhaps the most famous town of Long Island. They've got a grand, new fangled, dude pigeon club down there and opened it with an invitation shoot last week. A lot of cracks were persuaded to go down, but the Flushing chappies had put on so many frills that they thought they would put up a little job on them.

Louis Duryea, who is a very clever man with a gun, was dressed up to look like a Long Island hayseed, in rubber boots, an old canvas jacket and a slouch hat. He was introduced as a fellow who thought he could shoot and had roped in with some of the crowd. The committee demurred at first, but when he pulled out his $25 entrance fee they thought they might as well gather it in.

"Davenport," as he called himself, was guyed unmercifully every time he went to the trap. He acted his part to perfection, was very awkward in hanevery time he brought down a bird.

After Davenport had killed 15 straight the Flushing dudes didn't guy him so much. At 20 straight he was greeted with dead silence, and all the Flushing cracks had dropped out.

So Davenport went on and won the cup and all the "mon," with a clean record of 25 straight, and, what is more, he got away from Flushing withhim, and perhaps they won't know un-Louis Duryea of Glen Cove put up on them .- Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

A SUDDEN CHANGE.

A French Nobleman's Short Stay at Wash ington Calls For a Surmise.

A certain young French nobleman who arrived in Washington a day or two ago left in a hurry for his own shores, giving as his reason to the clerk of the up town hotel where he stopped that he could not enjoy himself in a country whose language he did not understand. He came expecting to remain several weeks, and there is a romance connected with his abrupt departure.

It seems that two summers ago be met a fair young American girl in Paris, and he tell in love with her speedily or with the fortune she was reputed to possess. At all events, the affair seemed to progress smoothly, and there was every prospect of a union. It was to claim the hand of the young lady that brought the gentleman to Washington, and on the day he landed he sent back a cablegram to his mother, saying, "All is well; am very happy." The next day he cabled, "Everything broken off; return at once."

What sudden cloud obscured his vishape of a stern father, interposed to ture, or it may be that the young arisnot be made. At any rate, he vanished, and one American girl will be all the happier for getting an American husband.—Washington Pest.

LITERARY NOTES.

An article in the January Atlantic, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, which will be likely to attract the attention of thoughtful readers, is Mr. John H. Denison's The Survival of the American With a courage and frankness not always found in writers on public affairs he describes the political situation, especially in the larger cities, where the establishment of an ignorant and alien domination compels those who believe in genuine American governmental ideas to fight the battle for liberty over again. while an extreme humanitarianism often obscures the line between justice and generosity. The whole paper is suggestive, and will probably excite comment of various kinds. Fiction is well represented in the number, which contains not only the first installment of "A Singular Life," a serial by Elizabeth Stuart a the for faithful adherence | Phelps, but the opening portion of "A Village Stradivarius," a characteristic two-, art story by Kate Douglas Wiggin; an amusing and yet some. what pathetic country story by Alice and many other articles of interest.

Sick With Pneumonia-A Serious Ac cident-Personal. Correspondence Argus and MERCURY.

-Gideon W. Cock, of Slate Hill, is quite ill from an attack of pneumonia. He has been confined to his room for several days, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. F. D. Myers is slowly getting better,

-Mrs. Lewis Marsh, of Slate Hill, met with quite a serious accident, last Saturday afternoon. As she was in the act of taking a carving knife from a shelf it slipped and fell, and as she attempted to catch the knife the blade came in contact with her wrist and cut a bad gash, severing two arteries. The blood from the wound flowed fearfully. Dr. Myers was summoned with all speed as was also Dr. Shelly, of Ridgebury, and as the case proved to ba a very difficult one to manage, Dr. Evans, of Westtown, was telegraphed for. The three doctors at last succeeded in closing the arteries and stopping the flow of blood, but not until Mrs. Marsh was greatly weakened from the loss of blood.

-Thomas T. Durland, who has ill, is now much improved and his condition is more comfortable.
